

I Matter Because

By Audrey McInnes

The world is a pretty big place.

There are billions of people on one big planet.

Take away one, it's not the same.

You are you, and that is enough.

No one can change you or replace you.

You matter a lot in this big planet,

more than you could ever know.

As far as you travel, as far as you go,

you'll always be you.

You and I matter because we exist.

Because we fight for freedom, or take out the trash.

You and I matter for even the smallest reasons.

You and I matter because we're unique.
