

This poem is about why we have to help habitats thrive. I'm going to change the earth by helping habitats and raising awareness that we need to help the earth and all the beings or else you might not be able to go skiing. All the things I have talked about are all true so give it a shout. For you may look outside and give a pout. I'm going to be a zoologist and the world will be changed from my helpfulness. I'll raise awareness and make fairness for the environment. And there you have my poetry assessment, and remember, I'll change the world one day for helping habitats become successful ecosystems.
